CEO Canyonlands Healthcare

CJ Hansen grew up in the Salt Lake City, UT area, prior to moving to Southern Utah in 1997 then Page, AZ in 2011. He has a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from Southern Utah University, a Master of Health Administration from A. T. Still University and has completed the UCLA/Johnson & Johnson Health Care Executive Program.

CJ began his professional career in the Federally Qualified Health Center (FQHC) space as the Executive Director of Enterprise Valley Medical Clinic. This is where he learned about health centers and fell in love with the health center mission. During his tenure (over 9 years) the organization grew by over 500% and expanded services to include dental and behavioral health. CJ left the FQHC world to take a position as the Administrator for Shadow Mountain Surgery Center and Southwest Eye Institute in Las Vegas, NV. This was a great experience that provided opportunities for learning and growth in the for-profit realm of health care. While CJ enjoyed his time there, he wanted to get back to the health center world. He was hired by Canyonlands Healthcare, an FQHC organization based in Page, AZ, and has been there since 2008. He has served as a Site Director, Chief Operating Officer, Chief Financial Officer, and has been the Chief Executive Officer since 2016. CJ has played a key role in growing the organization. He has helped build facilities, open new locations, expand services, and create access to care for more individuals in rural Arizona and Nevada. CJ has served as a board member for the Association for Utah Community Health, Health Choice Network, the Arizona Alliance for Community Health Centers, Collaborative Ventures Network, the Nevada Primary Care Association, Enterprise Little League, Page Youth Football, and is a founding member of the Allie's Angels Foundation, and VB Care Network.
